- How many courses can you study?
- You will be allowed to add or drop modules when you arrive at QMUL during the first two weeks of term. You are strongly advised to only use the Add/Drop period to drop modules. Adding modules after teaching has started is much more difficult, especially as you will not be used to British methods of teaching and learning. You can, therefore, register for five (or occasionally six) modules to start with, and drop one (or two, as appropriate) by the end of the Add/Drop period.
